

A large, dense table with many columns and rows, likely representing a detailed financial or operational report. The columns contain various numerical and categorical data points.